

New look for marine planning website!

We are excited to announce a re-launch of marineplanning.org! We've designed a cleaner, more user-friendly interface, updated project information, and additional resources. While we have been hard at work generating content for this site, we still have a few places where need to fill in some gaps. We will be working on adding content continuously, as it becomes available, but we also welcome your feedback if you have any additions to the site. Use the Contact Us link at the top of the page to get in touch.